Hereupon a young gallant quietly withdrew from the crowd of admirers gathered around Madam's carringe and disappeared. Three hours afterward he returned, covered with dust, and placed in the lorette's hand the coveted flowers. "And whence, pray," she asked, "do you come in such a sad plight?" "From Paris, Madame," replied the gentleman, with a courtty bow. "From Paris! And how did you go? "On horsehack. and I for the purpose." "Indeed?" returned the lady with a gracious smile. "It was very kind of the Viscount to lend you a horse! Tell him I am exceedingly obliged to him."

The Great Eastern in Newport.

We hope none of our readers will imagine from seeing the above caption, that the Great Eastern, while they have been sweetly eleeptug, has been quietly anchored or moored in our harbox. We assure them that such an idea is an illusion.

If the question were to be put to the people in Newport, whether resident or transient,-"Is a visit in these waters from that solentine phenomena desirable?" we cannot imagine that a single negative would be given. This sighth wonder of the world would afford a val uable opportunity to "all the people," to study one of the most stupendous works ever performed by man, one of the most magnifi cent displays of human genius. Buch an on portunity has never been vouchsated to this community before, or to the adjacent commuuities, and is of immonse value—a value in-catoulable in consequence of its varied nature.

Another benefit somewhat akin to this last would be its arousing into action the minds of our people, causing them to throw off the lethergy which rests upon them, as an apparently necessary consequence of our lovely climate True, this might only last for a brief season but even that brief season would be of inveloable worth to us as a people, albeit there may be some who prefer our present quiet, dreatay, singgish intellectual state.

But all such advantages as those previously mentioned, to some minds are visionary and of no account. There are also important firms clal advantages which lie within our grasp if cast attentiages which its within our grasp it we will but make the accessary effort to avail ourselves of them. Should the Great Easter visit Newport, the number of people who would come to Newport on the "monstel's" account can be estimated iruthfully at fifty thousand; we believe it would go beyond, rather than fall short of that figure. Of how much benefit, figuroully, would such as indexes much benefit, financially, would such an influ be to Rewport? True, bertain parties, by virtue of their situations in business, might be the first, and if you please, the largest recipients of this benefit, but what assists one member of our community must indirectly benefit all, besides the farther fact, a great many would be benefited directly. The different coutes of travel centering in this city would all be largely benefitted.

There is another view of the subject which we think is of much importance. We confess that we never think of our noble herbor, but we feet within us the slirring emotions of pride Newport is bountifully blessed with the most magnificent harbor in the world. And yes neither our own oldrens or those of any other (act. Unless we ourselves take advantage of this great fact, why should those who have but little or no interest in the matter do so-This largest of all ships " that go down into the cea," can come into our harbor at any state of the tide, with any wind, without a v of the tide, with any which the rising tide dreaded sand bar before which the rising tide must be awaited. And yet how few, either here or elsewhere, realize these important facts, or consider them worthy of notice. This is our own fault, which we can at any time remedy when we please to show a sufficient amount of onergy. Let the Great Eastern come into our harbor and moor at the wharf as she can do, and the lightning would flash the arrival instantaneously throughout the length and breadth of our country. Everywhere the fact of no delay from sand bars, for low tide, would be noted and compared with New York, and the excellence of our harbor he commented upon by thousands and tens of thousands who either never knew of it or else never gave it a moment's consideration. Such an arrival would, in this way, be of an immense value to our city.

But this contemplated visit would be not unly of such great advantage to us as a city, but also of equal or greater to others. All of the different routes of travel centering in this city would be largely benefitted thereby. Not only the steamers, but the different railroads with which they connect would find an opportunity for an immense amount of excursion

The importance of this visit must, from these considerations and many others which might be urged, be apparent. The question now isshall this desideratum be obtained? It will require an outlay of thousands of dollars for bment, perhaps ten or even more to do it. Shall it be done? To many, that ten thousand will be an effectual stopper. But we believe if an energetic man, one the requisite and appropriate talent, and also the complete confidence of our notive business men, will take the master in hand, it can be all accomplished, and before the close of the week we can have the satisfaction of announcing the pleasing, thrilling intelligence that the Great Kastern is coming. In conversation with one of our wealthy, stirring business mon, a day or two since, the offer was advanced to us of very large subscription towards effecting this object, and we were assured that there were others, boto in this city and other cities, as Providence, Boston and Fall River, who would sid with a liberal apirit. It certainly appears that nothing is wanted but a proper effort. Shall it be made?

PERSONAL -We learn that the remains of Captain O. H. P. Taylor, let Dragoons, and Lieutenant Wm. G. Gaston of the same Regiment, were interred, with millitary hone in the Cometery at West Point, N. Y., on the loth ule. An extract from the latter of an stirofficer stationed there, informs us that there remains were brought to this Port, from For-Walla Walla, W. T., by Lientenant N. B. ameltzer, 1st Dragoone; "having been sen by the officers of the Regiment, for interment is the g'ounds of their Alma Mater. and who, it is said, intend erecting a monu ment to their memory. They were both much esteemen by their brother officers, for their gentlemanly, soldler-like quaffties; they both fell in the same action, lighting gallantly, and it is firting they should eleep side by side, and the same monument perpetuate their roomory."

Slander.

A correspondent hands us the following extracts, which we think are worthy of attention from our readers, particularly the first .

The most precious things on this side the grave are our Reputation and our Life; but his to be lamented that the most confempti-ble whisper may deprive us of the one and the meakest usapou of the other.

Culpable Conduct of the Dutch Authorities at Batavia.

Washington, July 22 The affair of the mutiny on board the saip Staghound, at Batavia, in which the soir Staghound, at Batavia, in which the Soir of the Treasury, is stated to have said that when the Dutch authorities were invoked for protection the answer was that the alleged ourrages were committed under the American flag, and therefore not cognizable. The case, so far as investigated, shows a degree of superclinusness on the part of the part of the Dutch, almost amounting to a particept error mic the matter. It is thought here that until in new convention is entered into, a more efficient naval force should be sent to that strainford cuard against further injustice.

THE SAN JUAN DISPUTE—The New York Browld gives the points of controversy between Groat Britain and the United States about Vancouver's island and San Juar, in the following concise manner: "The question lies in a nut shell. The original boundary line, to which the British government as well as ours was bound, makes not only San Juan, but a part of Vancouver's island, United States territory. As a correspond San Juan, but a part of Vancouver's island, United States territory. As a concession to the long British occupation of Vancouver's island, and with no other metrice, we consented that the boundary line should be deflected so as to pass through the bither channel instead of through the island; now the British claim is, that because there is a channel on the hither side of San Juan as well as Vancouver's, the boundary line, which wait deflected salely to give them the latter, should be still further turned out of its original course, to give them the farmer also! The rush to the Mountains, Lake Win-nipisogye, Wolfboro', Centre Harbor, North Conway, Corham, and other popular re-sorts among the Alpine regions of the North, has commenced in carnest. On Sunday last, there were some 200 visitors at the Profile House, and about the same number at the Crawford House at the Oreat Notch. Among those who passed the Sabbath at the Profile House, was Ex-President Pierce.

President Pierce.

Three boys, respectively aged 11, 10 and 8 years, sons or Mr McNaughton and Mr. Conney, residing near Stuyresant, Columbia County, were drowned in the creek, near that place, on Saturday. They had a holiday that afternoon, and went into the creek to batte. Not returning at suppertime, their parents instituted a scarch, which resulted in finding the hodies of them all in the creek, about five yards from the bank.

On Monday night quite a novel and serious accident occurred at the tavern kept by Mr. Dawson, on the Falls road, non Baltimore. It appears that Mr. Dawson had a barrol of brandy in his bar-room, and after taking the bung out to make a draw, neglected to replace it. A customer came in any called toy clears, and while striking in and called for cigars, and while striking a match to light one, a portion of the fire fell in the barrel through the hung hole, when the whole, like so much powder, ex-ploded, tearing away a portion of the ceil-ing and injuring two men, one ceriously.
